There are lots of people in Britain. Not everyone's beliefs are the same.

There are lots of different religions in Britain.

You can be friends with people who believe differently.

It is good to talk to people who are of a different religion.

Believing in different religions doesn't mean you have to argue.
You don't have to change what you believe. You shouldn't try to change what other people believe.

Religions teach peace and love. Some people try to say other religions are wrong.

It is important to talk to us about how you feel when people talk to you about religion.